Several Thousand Appointments Remain at City of Seattle Locations This Week; Mayor Urges All Seattleites to Help Someone Else Get Vaccinated

Mayor Jenny A. Durkan today announced that all people who live or work in King County can now walk or roll up to the Lumen Field Event Center, Rainier Beach, and West Seattle vaccination sites, and get vaccinated without an appointment. Vaccinations without an appointment are available for those seeking a first or a second dose. As of April 30, an estimated 68 percent of Seattle residents had begun the vaccination process, and 41 percent are fully vaccinated.

“Seattle is making it easier than ever to quickly and easily get vaccinated. As of today, nearly 70 percent of eligible Seattleites have begun their vaccination progress. This is an incredible milestone, and if we continue this effort, we’ll reach a level of community protection where so many of us – particularly our most vulnerable – will be protected from the most serious effects of this virus,” said Mayor Durkan. “We’ve reached a turning point in our vaccination efforts: Now anyone who wants a vaccination in Seattle and King County can get one. If you have already been vaccinated, be a good neighbor and help your friends, family, neighbors, and coworkers get vaccinated. It’s up to all of us to defeat this pandemic.”

Patients who receive their first dose of the Moderna or Pfizer vaccine will be scheduled for their second dose once they register at the vaccination site. Patients who receive their second dose must provide proof of immunization via their vaccine card or immunization record. Patients can access their information at https://myirmobile.com. The Moderna and Johnson & Johnson vaccines are only for patients 18 years-old or older, and the Pfizer vaccine is only for patients 16 years-old or older. The vaccines are not interchangeable. Patients must follow Centers for Disease Control & Prevention timing guidance when seeking their second dose.

Today and tomorrow, Rainier Beach is offering the Pfizer vaccine, and West Seattle is offering the Moderna and Pfizer vaccines. Beginning Wednesday, May 5, the following vaccines will be available each day of operation going forward:

- Lumen Field Event Center: Pfizer
- Rainier Beach Vaccination Hub: Johnson & Johnson, Moderna, and Pfizer
- West Seattle Vaccination Hub: Johnson & Johnson, Moderna, and Pfizer

The address and hours of operation at these three City vaccination sites are as follows:

In addition, the Seattle Fire Department is piloting evening hours at the Rainier Beach and West Seattle Vaccination Hubs. On Tuesday, May 4, the Rainier Beach hub will remain open until 7:30 p.m., and on Wednesday, May 5, the West Seattle hub will remain open until 7:30 p.m. Vaccinations without an appointment are also available during evening hours.

For individuals who have already received their first dose from any vaccine provider and are due to receive their second dose, they are able to schedule second dose appointments at the Lumen Field Event Center, Rainier Beach, and West Seattle vaccination sites. Please note that these sites are not accepting walk-ins or roll-ins for second-dose-only appointments. These specifically need to be scheduled. Residents can schedule their second dose appointment here or can call the Customer Service Bureau at 206-684-2489, Monday – Saturday, from 8 a.m. – 5 p.m. for help scheduling an appointment.
