Sound Transit is reintroducing fares on Link light rail and Sounder service starting June 1, but will be offering a temporarily reduced “Recovery Fare.” Service will increase at this time as well, with Link trains to run every 20 minutes during the day, then every 30 minutes in the evenings and on weekends.

Recovery Fares will be $1 on Link and $2 on Sounder, available at the ticket vending machines through the month of June. Adult fares on Link light rail normally range from $2.25 to $3.25, while adult fares on Sounder trains vary between $3.25 and $5.75, depending on how far you travel.

In order to protect employees and passengers, all transit staff will continue to wear face masks. Sound Transit passengers are asked to wear face coverings consistent with public health directives. In King County, the face covering directive kicked off Monday, May 18, encouraging residents to wear masks in all public settings.
