Side Sewer Assistance Program

in partnership with

Seattle Office of Housing
What is a side sewer? Do I need to repair it?

If you own your home in Seattle, you own the side sewer (also called a sewer pipe) to the public sewer. Your side sewer carries wastewater from your sinks, toilet and drains to the public sewer in the street.

How do I know if my sewer pipe is broken?
Scan this QR code or go to www.seattle.gov/utilities/YourSideSewer to see the Troubleshooting Your Sewer Problem guide.

How do I qualify?
- Live in the home you own in Seattle
- Have a broken or collapsed side sewer requiring emergency repair
- Meet income guidelines listed below
